HOW TO USE THIS DIRECTORY

QUICK REFERENCE CATEGORIES

Quick reference categories (listed on page 2) are provided to help you find a provider by topic of interest.

Some providers are listed under more than one category.

MAIN DIRECTORY

The main directory (beginning on page 11) is an alphabetical listing of all providers listed under the quick reference categories.

This directory is provided by the Elk County Family Resource Network Collaborative Board, composed of representatives of various sectors of the community who have a common goal of building a safe, healthy, drug free community. We are a Communities That Care® Prevention Board.

Matches are made based on common interests, geographic proximity and parent and volunteer preferences. Matches meet 2-4 times per month and engage in mutually agreed upon community recreational activities and hobbies. Volunteers serve as friends, mentors and role models to help children gain confidence, increase skills, expand interests and hobbies, and improve connections and bonding within the family, school and community. Matches are professionally supported through ongoing case management. Match support specialists monitor and offer resources to support child safety, child development, and match relationship development. Match support specialists also help families connect to additional services in the community, facilitate free group recreational activities for matches and children waiting to be matched, and access free tickets for mentors and children to visit zoos, museums, theatre productions, professional sporting events and more. Additional volunteer opportunities include participating in Bowl For Kids' Sake, the program's largest annual fundraiser, by getting a team together, donating prizes, or being a lane sponsor. Other volunteer opportunities include demonstrating a hobby or skill at a group activity, hosting or sponsoring a group activity, or becoming a member of the Elk County Big Brothers Big Sisters Task Force.

Aging and Disability Resource Centers(ADRC)exist nationwide as trusted sources for information on long-term services and supports. In PA, ADRC is a program of the Dept. of Aging and is known as the PA Link to Aging and Disability Resources-or PA Link. PA Link is a network of partners working together to help PA obtain the services and supports they need to remain as independent as possible in the setting of their choice. These partners support consumer preferences for home and community-based services and they see the importance in empowering Pennsylvanians of all ages, abilities, and incomes to better understand, personally determine, and effectively navigate their long-term service and support options. Together, PA Link partners assist adults age 60+, individuals living with a disability, people with mental health or substance misuse issues, veterans, youth with special needs, and the family members and caregivers of these individuals. It is a cross system approach. The partner network consists of a wide array of human service and healthcare agencies as well as consumer and advocacy groups, civic and faith organizations, and community stakeholder. Local and regional collaborative groups such as inter-agency councils, human service councils, and task forces have also found value in becoming partners.
